

PORTFOLIO

PORTFOLIO OF SERVICES FROM EVS TRANSLATIONS

As an international translation company with a permanent staff of almost 200, EVS Translations provides its clients with a comprehensive portfolio of language services.

Our mission

We support ambitious businesses at the forefront of global communication and information exchange by producing multilingual content that delivers on its objectives. Our comprehensive portfolio of in-house services across digital, print and audio-visual media are underpinned by professional translation and the latest technology.

Our concept

Intelligent multilingual communication and information exchange can only be achieved through expert translation. At EVS Translations, we champion the skill of translation and that is why we have established one of the language service industry's largest in-house translation teams. Translators work within a professional, creative and supportive environment at each of our global offices. It is this dedication to expert translation, combined with smart use of state-of-the-art technology and an undeterred vision for quality which makes EVS Translations unique. How do you benefit? Intelligent content produced in a workflow that drives efficiency and adds value.

The localization tech-stack

EVS Translations is part of the movement for technological innovation in language services. This technology drives productivity, adds value and solves problems at scale. Translation Management platforms, integrations with your corporate interface, and Translation Memory Systems: these solutions ensure high-quality output. Your benefit: Time and cost savings.

Graphics and desktop publishing service

EVS Translations knows that expert content is only completely successful if it is presented with a professional layout. Our translation technology experts work with virtually all file types to deliver print-ready materials that match expert content with slick presentation. They also prepare content for translation in a Translation Management software environment, which supports the translator during the translation phase. Your benefit: Translations are print-ready without any additional formatting work on the client-side.

Media and market localization

Voiceover and subtitling for videos and other media formats, website localization and international SEO for targeted market access. Your benefit: Your global content is more strategic and targeted. It is delivered in the relevant format of any given customer touchpoint.

Global presence

The globally connected project management teams at EVS Translations are based across our offices in Europe and the United States. They coordinate our multidisciplinary in-house teams throughout the life-cycle of a project, monitoring and controlling each phase according to ISO 9001 and ISO 17100 certifications. Your benefit: Working with some of the world's leading brands, our in-house teams provide uninterrupted coverage on your projects to deliver quality at scale.

Smart and intuitive solutions

EVS Translations supports global corporations with solutions that compliment all levels of localization maturity and project types. Dedicated account managers ensure that multilingual communications and information fully satisfies your end goals. How do you benefit? Optimized processes that add value over the long-term and form the basis of a strong partnership.

Data security

The security of your data is paramount: Our own internal IT department manages data security measures in-house and an insider list protects your most valuable assets from misuse. We also partner with an ISO 27001 certified data center in Germany.
